ENTHUSE ENTERTAINMENT'S 'ALONE YET NOT ALONE' TO RELEASE ON DVD/DIGITAL JULY 2015

Oscar-snubbed historical drama depicts true story of 18th century colonists' survival and faith

Nashville, Tenn. (May 2015) – Oscar-nominated yet not Oscar-nominated ALONE YET NOT ALONE will release on DVD and Digital July 7, 2015. A film adaptation of Tracy Leininger Craven's novel by the same name, ALONE YET NOT ALONE gives life to an inspiring true story of survival and faith. Set in 18th century North America, the film depicts the harrowing journey of colonists and sisters Barbara and Regina Leininger as they struggle to survive being kidnapped by Delaware Indians after their family is murdered in the Penn's Creek massacre.

After having its Oscar nomination for Best Original Song (for "Alone Yet Not Alone") rescinded shortly after nominations were announced, the film became the subject of some controversy during awards season. The song has since been downloaded more than one million times on YouTube.com.

Set in 1755 in the midst of the French and Indian War, ALONE YET NOT ALONE is the heart-wrenching story of two sisters torn from their family and then each other by vicious local natives. Only their faith and the words from a childhood hymn, "Alone Yet Not Alone" (performed on the soundtrack by Joni Eareckson Tada) keep them going as they spend years held captive by local tribes. When her situation threatens to grow even worse, one of the sisters, along with three other captives, must risk a 200-mile journey through the wilderness to potential freedom, all while avoiding capture by the tribe's best warrior, who is in pursuit.

Kelly Greyson (RETURN TO THE HIDING PLACE) stars in the gripping film alongside actor/musical artist Clay Walker (CLAY WALKER: JESSE JAMES, SPACE COWBOYS) and Jenn Gotzon (GOD'S COUNTRY, FROST NIXON). James Richard's screenplay was co-directed by George Escobar and Ray Bengston.

"Everyone . . . needs to see this film. The technical quality, the beauty of the acting, and most importantly the inspiration of the story will get to your heart and elevate your spirit," raved Dr. James Dobson, Founder and President of Family Talk.
